SEVERAL INTERESTING CASE NOW PENDING.

V. Wright Sues the Long Beach Land and Water Company for $25,000—Levering Again Up for Perjury—The Gold-brick Swindle.

An interesting case concerning the liability of owners of resorts for damages resulting from their negligence, is en trial in Department Two of the Superior Court, Judge O'Melveny presiding. The plaintiff, Rev. M. V. Wright, editor of the Southern California Baptist, and long agent here of the Humane Society, sues the Long Beach Land and Water Company for $25,000 damages for the death of his son. His attorneys are Anderson, Fitzgerald & Anderson. The case was begun yesterday. In his complaint the plaintiff alleges:

First—That the defendant is a corporation under existing laws of California.

nder existing laws of California.

under existing laws of California.

Second—The plaintiff is the father of George Edwin Wright, deceased, aged 10 at the time of his death.

Third—That the defendant owns the Cerritos ranch in Los Angeles county and was in actual possession and use of said ranch lying immediately in front of the Pacific Ocean and known as Long Beach; that defendant also owned and used the tide-water land down to the lowest tide-water mark as a carriage drive and bathing place for its guests, and used said beach for its exclusive use and profit as a watering place.

Fourth—That while so using said watering-place the defendant advertised said place as suitable for a watering-place, peculiarly for women and children, and invited the public to visit it.

see and profit as a watering place. Fourth—That whileso using said watering-place the defendant advertised said place as suitable for a watering-place, peculiarly for women and children, and invited the public to visit it.

Fifth—That about the year 1885, defendant erected a pier in front of said village in the ocean and which was 'imperfectly constructed so that a certain log of wood of great length and weight fell from said pier into the waves which the defendant carelessly allowed to remain in the surf, tossed and thrown by the waves, up to and including the 26th day of July, 1886; all of which the defendant knew at the time.

Sixth—That while the defendant was controlling said watering-place and inviting the public patronage, the plaintiff visited the same with his family and remained during July 28, 1880.

Seventh—That upon said 26th of July, 1886, through the carelessness and negligence of defendant above described, George Edwin Wright, the minor son of the plaintiff.

Eighth—That by reason of the premises, plaintiff has sustained damages in the sun of $25,000, and demands judgment against the defendant in said sum.

The defendant demurs, and says that the complaint does not state facts enough to constitute a cause of action by plaintiff; that the complaint is ambiguous in several particulars, and in answer avers that it is not the owner of the entire Cerritos ranch, but only part; that the said village of Long Beach was laid out in streets and lots and sold to divers person other than defendant; that at the time of the death of the plaintiff's son the bath-houses, hotel and beach were under control of lesses; that the no time did defendant exercise entire use or control of the entire public, and denied to no one the right to bath thereon; that defendant did invite the public to visit said watering-place, but did not recommend it as peculiarly safe for women and children. Defendant denies negligence in the erection or control of the said log being in the waves; and further avers that plaintiff went to the

LEVERING AGAIN.

His Second Trial for Perjury Now in

THE TIMES has kept its readers posted as to the ins and outs of the interminable legal entanglements of J. H. Levering, and of his former trial for perjury, on which the jury disagreed. The second trial of the same case began in Department One of the Superior Court yesterday, Judge Hutton residing.
The following are the jurors: S. J. Stock

The following are the jurors: S. J. Stockwell, S. Holgate, H. D. McDonald, J. F. Smith, L. C. Mason, John Cundon, Charles A. Young, William Elemdorf, J. H. Birch, Robert Sharp, S. K. Hemphill, Barr Broadley. J. M. Damron is associated with the District Attorney. A motion for a continuance was denied and the case went to trial at 10 a.m. yesterday. The case was tried more than a year ago, but the jury failed to agree. 'The allegations in the compilaint are to the effect that two tree-notes owned by Levering had been paid in part if not wholly, when they were disposed of by Levering. Subsequently suit on the notes was brought in the Superior Court in the case of Dunton vs. Thomas, at which Levering testified that no part of the principal or interest on the notes had been paid. In this testimenty it is claimed lies the ground upon which the charge of perjury is based. Several witnesses were examined for the State to prove the allegations above mentioned. The hearing will be continued this morning at 10 o'clock.

Conspiracy to Defraud.

In Justice Austin's court yesterday morning the cases of Andrew Burns and T. B. Simpson, of gold-brick conspiracy fame, were called. The attorney for the people asked that they be dismissed for the reason that he was not satisfied with the complaint and had filed another complaint against the defendants, covering the case more perfectly. So ordered. Hearing set for Wednesday afternoon.

William Ritchie appeared also, and the same course was followed, his case being set for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Brown's Libel Suit.

Readers of THE TIMES—which printed the information exclusively—will remember

Rev. P. W. Dorsey, of the First Baptist Church; that the matter created a great sensation, and that an overzealous church-man named J. H. Burks printed in some of the city napers letters violently defamatory man named J. H. Burks printed in some of the city papers letters violently defamatory of Brown. His meddling brought him into trouble, and Brown promptly sued him for libel. The case has not yet come to trial; and yesterday there was field with the County Clerk a stipulation in which both parties agree to its continuance for the session.

Court Notes.

Louis T. Jacobs ex-janitor of the City Hall, thumped his successor, William Freen, with a club yesterday. Justice Austin will hear his case today.

Richard Morton, charged with burgiary, will be examined by Justice Austin on Monday.

CITY COURT.

Mayor Workman's classic brow was clouded. The air was thick and the room dark and lowering. The cause was the trial of a colored ran for fighting. The defendant and witnesses also were dusky as to compexions, but the investigations three some light upon the case, and after a fine of $5 had been levied the air became calm and bright.

About the usual number of drunks and disorderlies were up before His Honor, and went through the usual process of the crimi-

a number of ladies who are always prominent in any benevolent work. The idea of the entertainment is to furnish a number of characteristic tableaux, appropriately mounted and costumed, in which the first of the seven ages of man is pictured forth as it is enacted in various lands. Each seene is illustrated by a song of the nursery kind, so far as such songs may be obtainable. The ladies engaged in this work are to be congratulated on their success in putting on the stage some of the best tableaux that have been exhibited here. The programme has been heretofore published in these columns, and was carried out faithfully. Some of the pictures presented were especially happy in conception, notably the Irish scene, participated in by Mrs. H. T. Lee and Miss De Puy. The Chinese scene, by Mrs. H. C. Dean and Miss M. Brown, was especially funny, and brought a double encore. The tableaux of France, England, Germany, modern and colonial America, Scotland, Spain and Brittany were well-devised and effective. The Japanese make-up of Misses Page and Gavitt was also mach admired. The illustrative songs were mostly good, but, being sung off the stage, were hardly sufficiently audible for the purpose.

As interludes several very pleasing performances were introduced, among them a Spanish dance by Señor and Señora Castillon, a guitar solo by Prof. Arevaio, an Egyptian song by Miss Breed, illustrated by a pretty tableau, in which Miss Alice Severin and Miss Maurice took part. The feature of the evening, however, was the singing of Mrs. Norton, of San Francisco, whose voice was heard here for the first time last night. Mrs. Norton amply sustained her brilliant reputation, and gave with charming effect the song, "My Love is Come," by Marzifts, and for an encore, "Sigh, My Lute," by Helen Hopekirk, Later in the evening, she gave the "Chanson de Florian," of Godari and "O, Fatima," from the opera of Abu Hassan, by Weber.

Altogether the entertainment was quite a success, no small portion of which was due to the efficient stage manage popular Los Angeles agent of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, to Miss Lena M. Frink, on Wednesday, has already been noted in these columns. Thursday evening an elegant silver tea-service, of seven pieces, was sent to the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. daker. It bore the following inscription:

A Popular Railroader and His New Bride the Victims. The marriage of W. H. Snedaker, the

Stanton Post No. 55, G. A. R., held a no ble meeting and had a most enjoyable and glorious time last evening. The processor of a large number of delegates to the laboratory. Department Encarapment swelled the attendance to unusual proportions. A leading and attractive feature of the evening was the presence of Gen. Nelson A. Miles and Capt. Henry W. Lawton, U.S.A., both and Capt. Henry W. Lawton, U.S.A., both of whom joined the post—the former by transfer and the latter as a new member. Post Commander A. M. Thornton occupied the chair. Among the distinguished visiting comrades present were the following: Department Commander Salomon, Past Department Commanders, Staples, Kinne and Smedberg; Junior Vice Department Commander Bird, Assistant Addiutant-General Taylor, Assistant Onespartment Commander Staples, Kinne and Smedberg; Junior Vice Department Commander Bird, Assistant Additant-General Taylor, Assistant Quartermaster-General Orton, Chief Aid Will H. Wilson, Laycock, of Nevada; Dibble, Pitchard, Osborn, Rice and Merriman, of San José; Lyon, R. B. Treat, of San Luis Obispo, and many others.

Gen. Miles being introduced and invited by the Post Commander to a seat in full membership, was received by the entire post and their visiting comrades standing, and with loud applause.

Then followed the interesting and impressive ceremony of initiation. Three new members, Capt. Henry W. Lawton, U.S.A., A. S. McPherron and —— Farrell, were initiated. The ceremony of administering the obligation to the new members was performed by Past Commander J. W. Staples; the charge was delivered by Department Commander Edward S. Salomon, and the investiture of the new comrades with the badge of the order was done by Past Department Commander C. Mason Kinne.

A recess for free social intercourse was then taken, and the time was made the most of by all present.

Speaking followed, and a number of very excellent speeches were made, all breathing the true spirit of the Grand Army.

Department Commander Salomon was the first speaker, and talked in a most practical and patriotic way about the order and its work, giving sound advice for the benefit of posts and commanders.

Junior Vice Department Commander Bird followed, and was succeeded by C. M. Kinne, who worked off some verses on "The Old Canteen," which were full of happy in the true spirit of the Grand Army.

The proceedings closed with the presentation of Comrade Miles of the Grand Army badge, which was done on behalf of the post by Comrade Kinne, and Stanton Post No. 55 was declared closed by Commander Thoraten. The meeting was a spirited, splendid one-enjoyable throughout.

Lack of Brick at Pasade

The Pasadena Star says that the lack of brick is causing a great deal of delay in building operations there, and the consional shipment of a few carloads from Las Angeles does not altogether help matters. The storm spoilt thousands of brick at the Raymond yard.

WHY OUR CORRESPONDENT HAS

California Legislative Brokerage System-How the Cattle are Pur-chased at Retail and Sold in Job Lots-The Character and Good Sense of J. C. Flood.

OAKLAND, Feb. 22, 1887.—[Special Correspondence of The Times.] As I was at work this morning shoveling the snow from my sidewalk, the letter-carrier handed me the letter of the managing editor of THE TIMES in which he bluntly asks why I have not remained at my post of duty at the State capital. I read the letter and then resumed my work of snow-shoveling, because the city ordinance requires all residents to remove snow within six hours after the fall has ceased. But while I worked, I thought of the con-tents of the letter I had just read; and now that the snow is out of the way, and the walk well sprinkled with ashes, that pedestrians may not fall upon the ice, I have determined to answer the letter and explain why I have kept away from the Legislature since the Senatorial election.

away from the Legislature since the Senatorial election.

During the first week of the session I wrote to The Times "that nowhere else on earth, outside of a penitentiary, could be found so large and varied collection of scoundrels as are now in the State House." Public criticism and general investigation have from that day to this been proving the truth of my charge. There are a few honest men in the Legislature, but not enough to amount to anything more than laughing stock for the thieves. It has been the history of California legislators that while mest of them were harlots they did not prostitute themselves for trifles—they demanded enough to raise their criminal conduct above the grade of petty larceny, but in the present gang of cattle are many who would sell their votes for a street-car ticket.

THE LEGISLATIVE BROKERAGE SYSTEM is, perhaps, the cause of the decline in price, as under its operation a monopoly is created which taxes the monopoly is created which taxes the crimes "all the traffic will bear." In other words, the taxes are a kind of an ad valorem assessment. To fully appreciate this, I have to explain the workings of the "legislative brokerage system". of California, for no other State has as yet developed the twin crimes of bribery and theft as has California.

After the election has decided which party is in power in the two houses, After the election has decided which party is in power in the two houses, the brokers arrange their programme. If each of the two parties has control of an end of the Capitol, it requires two sets of brokers, instead of one, in all matters outside of those requiring the action of a joint convention. In the Senatorial contest, but one set of brokers were needed, for they could "pool," so to speak, all the Democratic cattle, and vote them without any aid from the other party. The Democratic broker went to his cattle and arranged with each one for his votes for all measures advocated by the broker, for which the critter was to receive a specified sum of money. This was to include his vote for Senator. One member has informed me This was to include his vote for Senator. One member has informed me that he was to receive only $850 for all the measures of his Democratic broker. Others received more. This is a change from the old rule, under which all the cattle were paid the same sum. At the regular session of the Twenty-sixth General Assembly the cattle each received $3000 for the whole session. It was a job lot, but Broker Higgins took the whole of it at that figure. I have never heard an estimate made of the price he sold for, but as he is a shrewd business man, I think it safe to assume that he doubled his money on the transaction. Cinch bills were introduced and passed or defeated, as interest dictated. To those needing legislation, this system is a great convenience. But one man was to be dealt with, and if an agreement could be made with him as to the price, the matter went through to the price, the matter went through without trouble. When cinch measures were up, the prudent broker taxed them all that the traffic would bear, but he was generally careful not to place his was generally careful not to place his price too high, for that would have destroyed his business. If any proof is required of the truth of what I have stated, I think I am in position to furnish it, but I know it is so familiar to old Californians that they will only smile at an offer to prove the fact; hence this explanation is intended only for the "tenderfeet," who are now sojourning in Southern California. Up this way the matter is fully and generally understood, and accepted as one of the incidents peculiar to our form of government.

The fact that the Democrats control The fact that the Democrats control the Senate and the Republicans the lower house of the present Legislature, makes it necessary to keep two sets of brokers on the ground all the time, or nearly so, and they are there. The few decent, self-respecting men in the Legislature have no voice in any matter which may be in the hands of the brokers, and generally seem thankful that the newspapers which are connected with the brokerage system do not assail them on general principles for being fools. The brokerage papers all have representatives on the ground, and the representatives on the ground, and the representatives all hold official positions and are paid out of the State treasury for their services in sending a limited amount of hog-wash (the proper name for their kind of whitewash) to their papers. The clerk of the Assembly Committee on Public Morals (Ye gods!) is known as the correspondent of the Los Angeles Tribune. Other committees are supplied in a similar manner, and there is the same fitness running through all of them.

With such a perfect system for managing a Legislature, I can see no reason ming through all of them.

With such a perfect system for managing a Legislature, I can see no reason why an outsider should waste any time at the Capitol. On the other hand, I can see many reasons why everybody except the brokers and those interested except the brokers and those interested in passing or defeating bills should stay away. Indeed it seems to me that even the members might well be spared, for the brokers could then reach results speedily and with the same effectiveness which now obtains. Why, only a few days ago, when the Insurance Cinch Bill was on the files of the House, and the anti-Cinch papers were opposing it, the brokers concluded that the best way to bring the insurance companies to time would be to advance it on the calendar, so they told some of their young hired hands to move it up a few notches. Some of the fool members who are not "pooled" got wind of the game and have kicked up quite an unnecessary stink about it. But in the end they will find that those who stir up fertilizing matter always befoul themselves. for it is already charged that the simple-minded young man who could entertain a proposition of bribery, and who then could not get the consent of his conscience to prevaricate on the witness stand, is afflicted with emotional insanity. In old times a well-constructed alibi was the defense resorted to in cases like this, but now the operators look sad and say: "What a pity that a young man of so much promise (not to give us away) should lose his mental balance!" For years this young man has reclined upon the soft bosom of the State and drawn from its copious breasts that nourishment so necessary for his subsistence, but now, alsa! his mental weakness has cut off this source of supply—hence-forth he will be weaned from the public nipple. So it will be with others who suffer with attacks of spasmodic virtue.

After the last election had decided who shire the last election had decided that the Democrats had captured the Legislature on joint ballot, I met Mr. J. C. Flood, and said to him: "Your party friends have the pole; why don't you use them to knock the Senatorial persimmon?"

"There are two good reasons why I should not," he replied. "The first is, that I am unfit for the office. I lack the education and training necessary to fill the place as I think it should be filled, and as I wish to see it filled for the good of the country and the credit of the State; and the second is, that I would not resort to the practices which are too often used to secure the election by men who are notoriously unfit for the high office. A man in my station of life, with no more ability than I have, must supply the want of ability with money, and I can enjoy what I have in other ways, without carrying with me the feeling that all decent, honest people are pointing the finger of scorn at me."

Mr. Flood is a rich man, but his name was not mentioned for the Senate—yet he could have bought the office without missing the cost out of his ample fortune. And this leads me to mention the fact that of all the Bonanza crowd and Pacific coast millionaires, Mr. Flood in the only one who sustains himself with a modest dignity that would become a man whose family had enjoyed vast wealth for so many generations that they had grown to regard it as a secondary incident in the general character of a man. Mr. Flood has lived with and loved and respected his family, and they, too, seem to have a full share of his self-respect, for the papers are not filled with descriptions of his wife's diamonds nor his daughter's dresses, as is too often the case with the parenue millionaires. Had Mr. Flood enjoyed the advantages of a liberal education he would have made his mark in any calling he might have followed, for no one can look at his massive, well-balanced head, and not feel that it is filled with good, honest sense. A head like his, which looks as though it might have been carved out of a b gives more benefits without detracting from the manhood of the recipients than if he had called all of the contractors and workmen into his office and handed them the proportions which they received for their part of the work. Now I agree with him, and if I should ever become possessed of a fortune, I would try to so invest it that it would give employment to the greatest number of people. The man who earns a dollar respects himself, but the man who begs a dollar, being able to earn it, has no self-respect and does not expect respect from any one else. The wealth of the Vanderbilts would have supported a few thousand people in charity's idleness, but invested in the vast enterprises that it is, gives continuous ity's idleness, but invested in the vast enterprises that it is, gives continuous support and employment directly to over fifty thousand people, and indirectly to more than two hundred thousand persons, and every one of them retains self-respect, independence of thought and action, and as a consequence, are good citizens."

Such practical sense could only be found in the daughter of a man as well balanced in all respects as J. C. Flood. Who will wonder that he would not buy a seat in the United States Senate, because he is of the kind who ought to be sent there without effort of any sort on his part?

The Progressive Thirty-eights.
The boys at the Thirty-eights' engine house are progressive. The collars and harness at present in use by the department are very inefficient. They are made one size, and it is necessary to buy a hoise to fit the collar. Besides, when the collar is snapped together at the bottom it shifts position, and generally falls to strike or catch till made to do so by hand. Having little faith in any other plan for securing a change, the boys have at their own expense sent for the "Berry patent extension harness," made to fit any collar, snaps together and stays snapped in a style that gives perfect satisfaction. It is far cheaper than the old one. The boys are getting a pair ready for the new engine J. M. RILLIOTT

ew Line from San Jacinto to the difornia Southern – Projected ectric Road for San Diego

The Santa Fé New Mexican of the 17th says: "It is more than likely that negotiations are now pending for one of the greatest railroad deals the West has ever dreamed of. The roads intered are all narrow-gauge lines, and the Mexican National of Mexico, the Southern Pacific Coast Narrowgauge of California, the Denver and Rio Grande of Colorado and Utah, and the Texas, Santa Fé and Northern system of New Mexico. The idea is to connect these lines and consolidate them in one grand narrow-gauge system. Everything points that way at the present time. The Texas, Santa Fé and Northern is to be extended south to El Paso, there to meet the Mexican National and link it with the Denver and Rio Grande, while from Utah the Denver and Rio Grande will send an arm across the mountains to make a connection with the Pacific Cost narrow-gauge. President Palmer, of the Mexican Central, is at the head of the movement. The latter company has recently provided for Colorado connections by reorganizing with a capital stock of $33,000,000, having its office at Colorado Springs. President Palmer is now in London raising funds for extending the Denver and Rio Grande across Utah to Santa Cruz, and building the Mexican National north from Laredo to connect with the Texas, Houston and Northern line at El Paso." the Texas, Santa Fé and Northern NIAGARA AND SANJACINTO RAILROAD.

The San Diego Union of the 24th says: "A third railroad scheme to connect San Jacinto Valley with the California Southern railroad has been evolved. D. C. Reed, T. J. Daley, H. A. Nelson, H. T. Christion and W. H. Carlson have associated themselves together for the purpose of building a standard-gauge railway from Niagara, a town on the California Southern, to San Jacinto, a distance of 18 miles, and yesterday they filed articles of incora town on the California Southern, to San Jacinto, a distance of 18 miles, and yesterday they filed articles of incorporation as the Niagara and San Jacinto Railroad Company, with a capital of $200,000. Niagara is about three miles from Elsinore, and a like distance from the Huff coal mines, to which a branch of the road will run. The route from this place to San Jacinto is said to be not only practicable for a railroad, but much shorter and easier than lines already proposed—from Perris, 20 miles from San Jacinto, and from Murrieta, 24 miles distant. Messrs. Osborn and Proctor, contractors, are now on the ground, and two miles of the roadbed will be at once constructed. The incorporators have nearly 2000 acres of land along the line, which they are willing to sell when the railroad gets through, and they are thus killing two birds at the same shot. The incorporation and the grading would not have been so soon undertaken but for the coming of a rival party of surveyors, representing the California Southern, who proceeded to set stakes over nearly the same line which this company wants. The right of way is easily procurable, being largely over government land and across the preperty of favorable owners. If the plans of the company are fully carried out, the railroad question will be settled for San Jacinto, and San Diego will be much benefited."

The San Diego Union of the 24th says: "The organization of the San Diego Electric Rapid Transit Street-car Company was effected yesterday, and the articles of incorporation will be filed today. The meeting to organize was held at the office of the San Diego Flume Company. The capital stock is $150,000, divided into 1500 shares of $100 each. #### THE TALMUD.

Rev. Dr. Schreiber's Lecture at the Synagogue. Rev. Dr. Schreiber lectured last night on this interesting subject before a large audience in the Synagogue. The following is a short synopsis of the discourse:

For 1400 years the Talmud was persecuted because little understood. The question of the destruction or preservation of the Talmud in the beginning of Diego Flume Company. The capital stock is $150,000, divided into 1500 shares of $100 each. The stockholders and amounts of their several holdings are as follows:

W. H. Somers, 150 shares. $15,000 Dr. David Gochenauer, 100 shares. 10,000 W. E. Robinson, 100 shares. 10,000 G. Frank Judson, 100 shares. 10,000 to president; C. F. Francisco, treasurer; W. H. Somers, secretary. This organization is simply the city street-car company, and is distinct from the suburban line soon to be organized for building and operating the suburban and El Cajon lines. The work of construction will be begun at once and will go forward as fast as materials and machinery can be procured. San Diego will not wait long for an electric railroad. The good faith of Dr. Gochenauer and Mr. Francisco was not pledged in vain."

alism, killing letter-worship and blind dogmatism. The New Testament might be called the "Haggadah" of Christianity, the best parables of Jesus and the Sermon on the Mount almost literally to be found in the Talmud and the Rabbinical literature, as extensively proven in Dr. Schreiber's work: "The Principles of Judaism Compared with those of Christianity. (Leipzig, 1877.)" The rabbi then quoted a number of interesting passages of the Talmud, thus amply showing that the ethics of the Bible found their amplification in the Talmud, and that the "Haggadah" became the nurse and mother of Christianity.

THE MASK THROWN OFF.

Free Press.

The Tribune's accusation that Vandever is posing as a martyr is as contemptible as it is gratuitous. It is a manufactured falsehood, without the slightest foundation in fact. He is not looking forward to his success in 1888, but is looking to his success in 1888, but is looking to his success now, and he-proposes to take his seat, to which he has been honestly and squarely elected; and nothing but the base treachery of pretended friends and the most unmitigated fraud can keep him out of it. Gen. Vandever, the gallant soldier and honorable statesman, after a leng public life without the slightest blot or stain upon his character, posing as a martyr! There is only one paper in the State that would originate such a charge. No Democratic paper would do it. Every one who knows the old hero and has the slightest acquaintance with his manliness and independence of character knows it to be utterly false. The animus of the whole Tribune article is so plain that it will deceive nobody.

with his manliness and independence of character knows it to be utterly false. The animus of the whole Tribune article is so plain that it will deceive nobody.

The Tribune was started by a few opposers of The Times . . . and has spared no pains to array itself on the opposite side of any position taken by the latter paper when it was possible to do so. The Times stood squarely for Gen. Vandever from the first, while the Tribune damned him with faint praise, as any one who will turn back to its files during the campaign can easily see. It pretended to favor Vandever, but the General's friends felt compelled to write to Los Angeles time and again during the campaign and ask if the Tribune was really supporting him or not.

The Times doubtless has its faults

porting him or not.

THE TIMES doubtless has its faults but we want our readers to know that it has stood squarely by Gen. Vandever from the beginning. Besides this, it is a first-class, independent and outspoken journal, that we do not believe can be bought.

The "Tribune's" Judas-like Conduct Denounced.
[Ventura Free Press.]

The friends of Gen. Vandever in this section have all along suspected the Los Angeles Tribune of treachery toward that gentleman. It now comes out boldly and accuses the General of posing as a martyr, and demands that he shall "withdraw or amend his answer" to Lynch, charging that it is an arraignment of the Democratic party, which, in the estimation of that paper, "will not do." Evidently the Tribune has desired to trump up some excuse to strike Gen. Vandever, but it will surprise its friends to know what a mere straw it grasps at to do it.

That Gen. Vandever has in any way attacked the Democratic party is a baseless assumption on the part of the Tribune. In replying to Mr. Lynch he has purposely adopted his own language in many instances, and only charges the local party where the frands were committed. Its efforts to show that our Congressman-elect has arraigned the whole party is the merest drivel. home of the Tribune's treachery. THE State Immigration Association's report for California evidently refers to the N. C. B. alone. Southern California has received this year more than twice as many visitors as the report credits to the whole State. THE Daily Betsy "wonders if any one noticed how much news it had Thursday. Some people NOTICED tha the metropolitan "gernal" had less than one column of telegraphic news sent to it over the wires-and every line of that was from Sacramento. It had one column of telegrams clipped bodily from the evening paper of the day before, headed "Special dispatches to the Tribune": and half a column clipped from up-country papers, about its which happened last Sunday and Monday. THE TIMES, the same morning, printed six and a half columns of honest telegraph. If the D. B. didn't lie and brag so much it wouldn't be exposed so often.

"JAYHAWKER" makes a somewhat biting reference to the Tribune correspondent at Sacramento, in connection ith the general rottenness up there. Mr. Phillips, the Tribune man, has written a private letter to the able but ewhat idiotic editor of that paper, and the erratic and preposterous person of the name of Betsy, that rushed his correspondent's letter into print with highly ridiculous previousness. The correspondent's letter is about the published allegation of his connection with the Smith-Moffitt crookedness, and he "deniges of it" with solemn earnestness. He "doth protest" very much, and makes the following request of his "chief":

"I hope you will be charitable enough to withhold your judgment until the investi-gation is over, for I am satisfied it will de-velop the villainy of Smith to a degree that will exonerate all whom he has sought to

Statesman Moffit, too, wants a sus-pension of judgment. It was he, the pull-necked and strong-paunched states-man from the wilds of Alameda, who

Let the investigation proceed!

The Cahuenga Valley

Right at the western door of Los An geles, and coming up to the very bor-ders of the city, is the considerable valley of Cahuenga (pronounced Cowenga). It stretches quite from the city to the ea, and is bounded by the Santa Mon ica Mountains on the north and by the Ballona hills on the south. It contains upward of a hundred square miles, or near seventy thousand acres of most excellent land. While Los Angeles is at one end of this valley, the other end opens upon the ocean, and is marked by the flourishing town of Santa Mon ica and the new and promising port of Ballona. This valley slopes gradually from the mountains to the southfeature which distinguishes most of the valleys of Los Angeles county, and no doubt contributes largely to their geni ality. Sloping to the north, they would get less benefit from the sun and th ocean breezes. Lands facing the south are generally regarded as more salubrious than lands sloping in the opposit

The lowest part of the Cahuenga Valley, near its southern border, is threaded by the Los Angeles and Santa Monica Railroad, a trip over which gives one something of an idea of this valley, but to enjoy it fully and to appreciate its ns, one must needs pass through its more elevated portion, or over what is known as the Los Angeles and Santa Monica Foothill road. A more delightful drive, so far as natural advantages are concerned, than is afforded by this route, can hardly be found anywhere. Most of the distance is made through a country absolutely free from frosts, and where so far as tried, all tropical product flourish in the open air. It is in this region that the earliest vegetables for the San Francisco and Los Angele markets are produced. The elevation of these lands above the sea is from 300 to 500 feet, and they are, for rich ness of soil and beauty of location unsurpassed. Here, better, probably than in any other place within the boundaries of California, the banana grows and comes to perfection. It i the dream of some of the inhabitants of this Piedmont that it will one day be occupied by suburban villas, since here people can not only rest under their own vines and fig trees, but they may luxuriate among banana and mange groves, even in this temperate zone This never-freezing belt stretches from the city quite to the ocean, but in width it is probably only a mile or two.

It is the misfortune of the Cahuenga Valley to have been occupied by large Spanish land grants. The keen eye of the first white settlers in this country early detected the richness and natural advantages of this seaside valley, and it was absorbed by private ownership at a time when large concess land were made to individuals, or families. Some of these holdings have continued to this day, greatly to the detriment of that part of the county. Others have been broken up into farms of proper size, and the rest, it is hoped will soon follow, when the Cahuenga Valley will assume its proper place among the most favored localities in Los Angeles county. Nature has certainly done as much for it as for any. and its nearness to the city-indeed, its happy situation between the city and the sea, must eventually give it great prominence. In the productions of the soil, in salubrity of climate, in beauty and grandeur of scenery, and in advantages of geographical position, no more favored place than Cahuenga Valley need be looked for, in this or any other country.

It is becoming a subject of earnest inquiry to know what kind of security if any, the national banks will furnish for their circulation when the Government bonds are all redeemed. Thes bonds, it is well known, are in proce of rapid extinction, and ought to be retired at the rate of ten or fifteen mil lions a month, at least, until the surplus in the Treasury becomes greatly reduced. At best, or worst, the bonded portion of our national debt cannot las many years, and when that is canceled the national banks will have to go out of existence as banks of issue, unless some other security shall be authorized by law. For this reason the banks have been averse to the extinction of the national debt, and in this, it has been believed by many, their interests have not been in harmony with the interests of the people at large. The banks may believe, and some of the bankers have asserted, that "a national debt is a national blessing." Jay Cooke, on of the first and most prominent bankers under the national system, gave utter ance to this sentiment touching the supposed benefits of a national debt. But he did not succeed in bringing many people, not interested in the national banks, to his way of thinking. Doubtless, a national debt might have a ten dency to consolidate and cemen together discordant elements and interests in a country, but that gain would b achieved at the cost of national pride and patriotism. A government like ours, which is supposed to be based upon justice and intelligence, ought to be at least as strong without as with the burden of a national debt. Desand patriousin. A government like ours, which is supposed to be based upon justice and intelligence, ought to be at least as strong without as with the burden of a national debt. Despotisms may stand in need of some such concentrating force to preserve their existence, but a free Republic never. If the national banks gradually surrender their functions as banks of issue, and do business upon the old principle of furnishing their own capital entirely, the public will not suffer in consequence, nor will the banks be injured thereby. Their profits might be somewhat interfered with, but their rights would not be intrenched upon in the least. National banks may be public conveniences, and we are willing to concede that they are, but the privileges conferred upon them by the Government are gratuities never The banks may prize the favors, but they do not need them. The power which they have by law of issuing paper money is really a function which should be exercised by the Government alone. It is a sovereign power, precisely like that of coining money, and the one is as much within the Constitution as the other. The national-bank law was passed during the war, and as one of numerous war for the salvation of the Government: but the necessity for conciliating capital by large conce has long since passed, and the national banks as banks of issue will probably cease to exist when the national debi is paid off.

The Matter of Climate

We take no exception to the attempts of our northern citrus friends to cast ridicule upon our climate. If it affords them gratification, we are glad of it since it does us no harm. Besides they are in need, in that inhospitable portion of the coast, of some consola tion, and if they can get it in this in-nocent way, who should object? In reference to real-estate transactions. they are pleased to say that a small part of the price goes for the land, and that the balance is paid for climate; and that more is charged for climate than for land in the southern part of the State. Well, we accept their interpretation of the reasons why real estate commands a higher price in Los Angeles county than in counties farther orth, if such is the fact. And if the statement be not true, then we will claim that land ought to command a better price here than farther north for precisely the reason that our climate is preferable to theirs. Ridicule will not blind people to the fact that climate is an exceedingly important factor in estimating the advantages of a country. But for climate, the North Pole would have been reached long ago The climate of Siberia, or New Guinea is not especially hospitable, and would be taken into account in visiting those countries. On the other hand, the South of France and Italy are attract ive to mankind on account of climate and we can say, truly, that Southern California, and particularly Los Angeles, possesses a climate not less ge-nial and attractive than any other place on God's footstool, and our citrus friends would show better sense by coming here to enjoy it, than by at-tempting to put it in ridicule.

Lynch's Contest.

J. D. Lynch begins today the taking of partisan Democratic testimony in nis contest of Gen. William Vande ver's election to Congress from the Sixth District of California. The list of Lynch's witnesses, published by THE TIMES on Thursday, includes some very choice birds-accommodating individuals who will testify to order.

As to Lynch's contest, L. T. Fisher the old-line Democrat who runs the Santa Monica Outlook, says editorially "J. D. Lynch, the defeated Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, has published his grounds for a contest for the seat, and Gen. Vandever, his successful Republican competitor, has given his rejoinder to the public. . . . Gen. Vandever has the certificate of election, and a lot of Congressmen at Washington are hardly able to determine what the recole of dever has the certificate of election, and a lot of Congressmen at Washington are hardly able to determine what the people of this district want better than they know themselves. We don't believe that a Democratic House will arbitrarily seat Lynch. The humorous part of Lynch's charge is that of Republican fraud at the White House voting place in Los Angeles. Any one who is familiar with the methods at that point, and then hears of the immaculate Democratic behavior in that precinct, 'smoles a smile' that parts at his nose and meets at the back of his head, and we are not so sure that some of this radiance does not spread to the bottom of his boots."

Can Interstate Commissioners be Appointed During Recess?

the Facific Bailroads Passed by the Sen-ate—The Chinese Indomnity Bill Approved.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—[By the Associated Press.] A question has arisen, and was laid before the President late this afternoon, as to the power to appoint Interstate Commerce Commissioners after the adjourn-ment of the Senate. It is held on one side that the power conferred by the Constitu-tion to fill vacancies which may happen during the vacation of the Senate does not during the vacation of the Senate does not cover the right to appoint to a newly-cre-ated office, which is to be filled by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. It is understood that Senators Harris and Pugh are among the number of those who so believe, and that Senator Pugh called upon the President this afternoon to direct his attention to the matter. On the other hand. it is argued that a vacancy "happens," as much by the act of creation as by the death or resignation of an incumbent, and there are those who refer to decisions by the Attorney-Generals covering the point, to the effect that the President has power to appoint.

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.—[By the Associated Press.] A Washington special says: "Senators Sherman and Harris called on the Pres ident to talk over Congressional work, and were informed that an extra session of the Senate would be necessary. The President said he did not have time to consider the Interstate Commerce Commissioners now, and would have to delay their nomination until after March, which is believed to mea that he intends to appoint some members of commercial treaty pending between the United States and China, and an extradition treaty between the United States and Great Britain, which demanded attention. It is believed that the extra session will last a month."

One Man Who Does Not Care About Office.

New York, Feb. 25.—President Andrew D. White, of Cornell University, has telegraphed President Cleveland declining to allow the use of his name in connection with the formation of a commission under the Interstate Commerce Act.

The Tribune tomorrow will say: "With the refusal of ex-President White to accept the Interstate Commerce commissionship, the name of another resident of this State, who is also a Republican, has come before President Cleveland for the position. It is that of Alexander McDonald, who was formerly United States Senator from Arkansas, but who has for a long time lived in this city. He is said to have the recommendation of Attorney-General Garland, of every member of the Senate (in which he has served), in both political parties, and the personal good word of every present Democratic Senator. It is said in political circles here that Mr. Cleveland has offered one commissioner-ship to Col. W. M. Morrison, of Illinois, which has been acepted, and has offered one conditionally to Gen. James H. Wilson, formerly president of the New York and New England Railroad Company. He was the officer in command of the soldiers who captured Jeff Davis."

CALIFORNIA WINES

What an Eastern Expert Says of Their Future. New York, Feb. 25.—[By the Associated Press.] T. M. Gilmore, of Bonfort's Wine Circular, returned recently from a trip to San Francisco, made in the interest of his San Francisco, made in the interest of his paper. He expresses himself delighted with California, and prophesies a great future for the wine interest of that State in particular. He said: "California produced last season, 20,000,000 gallons of wine. The coming vintage will not be short of 30,000,000 gallons. The wine men of the State are thoroughly organized, and fully determined to overcome all obstacles in the way of making fine wines and champagnes. All they ask is a law from Congress taxing articles used in adulterating wines sufficiently to prevent this fraud. At present they are making red claret, good white wine, and one or two firms are producing excellent sherries. One firm is making natural champagne, which compares favorexcellent sherries. One firm is making natural champagne, which compares favorably with the best imported. The brandies of California did not strike me very favorably. In the distillation and storage of this class of goods I think they have yet much to learn."

WINTER'S STORMS.

Snow at Grass Valley and in the Mountains—More Rain, Grass Valley, Feb. 25.—[By the Asso-clated Press.] Nearly a foot of snow fell in this vicinity yesterday. The snow is now rapidly melting. He Delivers Another Lecture on Temperance.

Col. Woodford lectured again at the Congregational Church last evening on temperance. A synopsis of the discourse follows:

If I should ask any father in this city whether he wanted his boy to grow up a sober boy or a drunkard, he would look at me in surprise and think I was out of my mind. All a father's hopes are crystallized in his son, and he would rather see him dead than have him go "to the dogs."

What we want today in our country is not in his son, and he would rather see him dead than have him go "to the dogs."

What we want today in our country is not more stringent criminal laws, but fewer criminals—fewer criminal factories. God give us men who will spurn the thirty pieces of silver.

The example of the home, of father and mother, makes an indelible impression upon the character of the boy.

Drinking to get strong! Mothers, did it ever occur to you that the reason you give for taking your glass of beer or wine is the strongest recommendation of it to your boy? How many young men are ridiculed against taking a right stand upon the social custom of drinking? How many young men are led by the delusion of California wines? There are men today who would be sober men if their wives would let them; there are boys today who would be sober, if it were not for their mothers; and yet I would not charge to them all the drunkenness in the land. It is the social power that wine has acquired in California which makes the temptations peculiarly strong. Wine-drinking is pophar because it is considered the social thing to do.

There is nothing more dangerous peculiarly strong. Wine-drinking is popular because it is considered the social thing to do.

There is nothing more dangerous to youth than the power of the saloon in our political system. It is the great factor to be considered for political preferment. The same power on the one hand that is filling our jails is on the other filling our legislative halls.

We are dealing with appetites today that are a hundred generations deep. The rags of our ancestors are woven into the woof of our own individuality, and pretty poor rags they are sometimes. Not only custom and education are necessary to make our boys what we desire them to be, but there must be good blood. All the evils resulting from intemperance may be transmitted to children, although the parents themselves may be but moderate drinkers.

The children of drinking parents who escape the curse are the exception. Some taint falls upon them all. [This point was emphasized by numerous incidents.] God help the boy when his home is no longer a sanctuary for him. If there ever was a time when the nation calls for young men to be true it is now. A firm decisive stamp of men of metal is needed. God help us all to be wise today.

the city will rejoice with the ladies of the Flower Festival Society in the knowledge that the completion of their beautiful and comfortable boarding home, which will be formally opened March 1st, makes it possi-ble for them, now, to receive and care for aged homeless women of limited means, as ble for them, now, to receive and care for aged homeless women of limited means, as well as the young workers for whose comfort and safety the home was originally designed. There is, perhaps, no more significant or hopeful fact in the history of current events than the complete organization of benevolent work. Everywhere the obligation to provide for themselves is accepted without question and prompt action taken to secure the best results from the means expended by careful systemization. But all who have ever entered this department of the world's work, know well that, at best, they were only able to relieve the advance guard of that vast army, "the needy." The phenomenal rapidity of the growth of the city has made the work of philanthropists of almost appalling magnitude and exigence. But nobly generous has the response to all claims, and the sequence in the development of plans has been noteworthy. First, the Benevolent Society, caring for the needy of every class and condition; next the Orphans' Home and free Kindergartens; then the Flower Festival Society, throwing the safeguards of a real home around young girls while they seek to earn an honest living amid the snares of a crowded city. Thus, step by step, the most pressing wants have been met and supplied as far as possible. But, meanwhile, on every hand other wants and woes are cryjng for relief. The Benevolent Society are saddened by appeals ole. But, meanwhile, on every hand other wants and woes are crying for relief. The Benevolent Society are saddened by appeals to which they cannot respond; the Board of Managers of the Orphan Home find many children in worse condition than "orphans half-orphans and abandoned children," and the Flower Festival Society have listened to applications so varied as to have been amusing, had they not been so pathetic. No appeal has touched more deeply than that made so frequently for aged women. But the limited capacity of the Home has always presented an effectual barrier to any plans for their relief. Now the ladies can enjoy the privilege of sheltering some bowed beneath the weight of years, whose means are too meager to secure the same degree of comfort in any other way. This arrangement, temporary though it must be and limited in extent, will be a real relief till permanent and more extended provision can be made for this class.

Many of the houses destroyed had large tanks underneath filled with olive oil intended for exportation to France and Germany. #### LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

More of the Marine Discussion Los Angeles, Feb. 25 .- [To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I was absent from town and did not see your letter "Old Salt" until this morning.

I did not say a ship could slip her cable at San Pedro when the wind was blowing a gale from the southeast, if anchored in five fathoms and within so short a distance of a lea shore that they could not pay out chain without striking, but I do say that the Kennebe could have taken her anchors and gone to sea any time between midday of Sunday and midday of Monday, the 14th. The barometer gave every indication of a gale. And I again repeat there was ample warning. Why was no more move made? Why was so large a ship as the Kennebec anchored in five fathoms, when the captain knew or ought to have known from his charts that his ship would take the ground before he could pay out all his cable? He had been on this coast before; he had anchored in San Pedro roads before. What business had he to be misled by runners that he knew were not regular pilots. He had his charts and coast-guide, and besides these he had his lead. My object in writing to you was to defend the open roadstead of San Pedro, which I assert, if common precautions are used, is as safe a place could have taken her anchors and gone San Pedro, which I assert, if common precautions are used, is as safe a place to anchor as any other open roadstead between Cape Horn and San Francisco, and I contend that the vessels wrecked within the last month did not take common precautions. As I have before stated, the Kennebec's captain had been here before. He was not a stranger to this coast; and knowing the danger of easterly gales immediately upon his arrival put his family on ahore, and when the blow came was on shore himself. The best evidence that San Pedro roadstead is a safe anchorage ground are the facts that those vessels that were anchored in sufficient depth of water either took up their depth of water either took up their anchors and went to sea or paid out cable and rode out the gale.

As to my being a seaman and knowing the difference between handling a square-rigger and a fore-and-after, I think it probable I handled both before "Old Salt" was horn. However, that "Old Salt" was born. However, that at present is not the question, but the question is, Were these ships lost because of the unsafe anchorage, or because of incompetent pilots, or from want of proper care of those in charge of them? and is the San Pedro roadstead a safe place to anchor? I leave "Old Salt" to answer.

Until Congress will grant a sum sufficient to deepen the water on the bar, so that vessels like the Kennebec can enter the harbor, the open roadstead is the only place we have for them, and it is not to the interest of the people of Southern California to have it damned by the carelessness or incompetency of those who use it.

Schacht & Lemcke, in thefr annual review of the Honey trade of California during the past year, say:

"Lest year the opinion was expressed by the our annual review for that and the receding year, that the prospects were not pool for the producers of Honey on this cast, and we regret to say that, as it has kined out, we were not mistaken. The mply was abundant and all that could be centred as to quality, but the ruling price continued to be so low here, in Europe and other markets, that the Honey raiser obtained unremunerating prices for his excelent product, and not more than in 1884, which was the largest crop we ever had. At its beginning of the season, when the crop rounised to be even larger than in 1884, the prices were lower than during the two preceding years, but later it was found that the crop would not be over large, and prices dvanced somewhat, but not enough to allow dealers to pay remunerative prices to producers. The principal causes for these low-prices were the limited demands from Europe, and almost all our surplus Honey had to be consumed in this country. Without being able to give the exact figures, we estimate that the Honey crop for 1885 was only 700 tons. Of the very large crop of 1884, large quantities were carried over, so that in 1885.

"The cause of the small shipments during the past year was the low prices ruling in those countries. California Honey finds better favor everywhere, and although the shipments to Europe were small, they were unusually heavy to the Atlantic, Western and Southern States.

"We estimate stocks on hand in the interior hardly over 4000 cases of Comb, and in the interior hardly over 4000 cases of Comb Honey hard in grading, as complaints are frequently made that there are two or three and even more different into so retracted though a simple of the prices are now fully 3 cents higher than the ruling rates of the year. The outlook at the present into so retracted, and proved the prospects for the coming crop, which will undoubtedly be a late one, and most produ will most effectually purify the blood, give tone to the nervous system, and build up and strengthen the general constitution. In other words, I employ combined local and general treatment.

What is Medical Inhalation Before stating briefly what Medical Inhalatien is. I propose, in as few words as possible, to state of the state

MEDICAL ADVOCATES OF INHALATION

Physicians who were educated twenty years ago or more, and who have not kept up with the times in the advance in medical science, have very little idea of the great importance all leading medical writers now give to Medical Inhalation in the treatment of pulmonary diseases. To such an extent is this true that no patient should intrust his case to any physician who is not well prepared and thoroughly equipped with everything necessary for the administering of the proper remedies by the method of Inhalation.

The numerous cures effected by Inhalation in cases seemingly past all help, and the uni form success attending its use in diseases o, the respiratory organs, renders it obligatory or every honest physician to at once apply him self to gain a practical knowledge of the Inhilation, or, if that is not possible, he at least bound to decline to treat such cases.
Among the most eminent hysicians of the Inhilation, or, if that is not possible, he is at least bound to decline to treat such cases. Among the most eminent physicians of the age who are fully awakened to the value of Medical Inhalation insighese diseases are the following: The celebrated Dr. Burdon-Saunderson; Dr. La Roche, of the Paris Academy of Medicale; Dr. Frederick Langhaus, of Berlin; Drs. Klebs and Tommasi-Crudeli; Sir Archibald Dickson, of Edinburgh, Scotiand; Dr. Eichler, Dr. Cameroa, Dr. Gurdon Buck, Prof. Albert Lehert, the celebrated Dr. Hughlings Jackson, the venerable Dr. Robert Dickinson, Prof. Thierfelder, Sponcer Wells, Dr. Hilton Flagge, Dr. G. P. Wood, Drs. Fritsch and Hizzig, Dr. Fothergill, Dr. Richard Thompson, Dr. R. S. Carponter, Drs. Anstie, Ball, Fuller, Lancereaux, Krauss, Huguenie, Heller, Orth, Corrigan, Fenwick and many others. With soarcely a single exception every medical authority of eminence recognizes the wonderful potency of this new method, and the coming generation of physicians are certain to be thoroughly educated therein. At present it is only a few physicians here and there who have made "Diseases of Respiration" a life study that are fitted in any way te employ the wonderful resources of Medical Inhalation in the cure of these diseases.

THE CURABILITY OF CONSUMPTION.

For five years the celebrated Dr. I. H. Bennet was pathologist to the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh, and in his great work on "Consumption" he makes the following statement: "During this period I made upwards of 2000 post-mortem examinations of persons dying from "arious diseases, and I was constantly meeting with cases in which I found cavities in the lungs from consumption, which had evidently healed up or cicartized years before the death of the subject. Nature did not seem to have been successful in restoring the wasted lung-substance, but the cavities were dried up, the progress of the disease arrested, and the subject lived for years, with diminished lung power it is true, but otherwise in good health."

State: improvements; will divide it: 2 miles from city limits: on payments: per acre.

This land is susceptible of a high state of cultivation; will produce from two to four crope per annum, owing to the variety planted, such as melons, potatoes, tematoes, peppers, poas, beans, cabbages, etc.; $100 per acre net profit is but a fair estimate on each crop; this sum was realized per acre the present season from this winter vegetable land; winter tomatoes will yield much more than $100 per acre net. and melons and potatoes will average that amount; we plant tomatoes in August, potatoes in October. November and January, and then follow with melons, on the same ground, which will bring a return of $100 per acre net, without one drop of water; this soil will remain moist the entire year by proper cultivation; ten acres will make a man wealthy in a few years if properly cultivated; must be seen and investigated to be appreciated.
